

Kansas Callers in 2018

to the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline

In 2018, the Lifeline received 2.5 million
crisis calls from across the United States

21,081
calls were from Kansas

Of the 21,081 callers, 5,628 individuals pressed "1" to be transferred to the Veterans Crisis Line and 153 pressed "2" for Lifeline's Spanish Language Line.

Ideally, the remaining 15,300 calls in 2018 would have been answered by Lifeline call centers in Kansas.

Of those, only 9,896 calls (65%) were able to be answered in-state.

Which meant 5,404 callers in crisis were unable to be answered by Kansas call centers.

Established in 2005

the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is the nation's most recognized suicide and mental health crisis line.

The Lifeline is not one large national call center. Instead, it is a network of 170 independently operated, independently funded local, regional, and state-level call centers. In 2018, there were 2 Lifeline-affiliated center in Kansas.

In the event local centers are unable to answer, the Lifeline re-routes calls to backup centers in our network (both in and out-of-state).

To participate in the Lifeline network, centers operate to the highest standards of suicide care. They do an incredible job of de-escalating crisis situations, decreasing emotional distress, and reducing suicidality.

Why were only 65% of 2018's Lifeline calls in Kansas answered in-state?

▶ Lifeline call centers set the hours and coverage areas for when and where they will take Lifeline calls. They do this based on funding and staffing levels.

Most Lifeline-affiliated call centers in the U.S. (including in Kansas) answer calls on other helplines in addition to the Lifeline. Despite their very best efforts, call volume can, at times, strain center capacity and callers may hang up while they wait for the next available counselor.

When local call centers are unable to answer, the Lifeline pulls the call back and sends it out of state and into our national backup center sub-network.

▶ When calls are re-routed to centers out-of-state, Kansas callers in crisis wait longer, they receive fewer linkages to effective local care, and they are more likely to abandon their calls.

Proven effective; needing support

The Lifeline's hotline services have been shown by research to be effective, life-saving safety nets for those in crisis (Gould et al., 2007, 2013, 2015, 2017; Ramchand et al., 2016). According to a 2018 survey of Lifeline centers, almost 98% of the crisis calls are de-escalated such that costly, highly-restrictive responses from law enforcement and emergency medical services are not necessary.

The Lifeline is federally funded to manage the call routing, best practice standards, public messaging, capacity-building opportunities and technical assistance for its nationwide network. However, the funds that sustain our network's crisis centers come from state, county and local sources. Many of our network's centers are struggling to find enough funding and resources to operate and grow.

These call centers are key components of Kansas' city, regional and state behavioral health systems because they represent an entry point into other levels of coordinated care. They provide critical services for Kansas residents at serious risk, especially those with nowhere else to turn.
